Dear Mr Rathore,

I have contacted you previously about the action you need to take to finalize your incomplete submission to Life Cycle Reliability and Safety Engineering but I haven't received a response from you.

The status of this manuscript is still recorded as 'incomplete', which unfortunately means that not all the steps necessary to complete the submission process have been taken.

Should you still wish to submit this manuscript, I would be grateful if you could log in to your author menu and complete your submission.

You can obtain your Username/Password, by using the "Send Login Details" link available on the log-in page.

If you require any assistance to complete the submission process, please do not hesitate to contact me, as I would be happy to help.

In order to ensure that the Editorial Manager site is reflective of active submissions, I do have to remove incomplete submissions on a regular basis. Therefore, if I do not receive your completed submission within the next 3 days, your submission will be removed. I do hope you understand.

If you have been experiencing difficulties finalizing your submission and have contacted our editorial office about the problem, please ignore this email. Your submission will not be withdrawn at this stage.

I look forward to hearing from you.

With kind regards,

Life Cycle Reliability and Safety Engineering
